DEPARTMENT: Economic and Community Development

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

The NBEDC maintains a contract with the City of New Braunfels for administrative and professional services in support of the EDC's mission at an annual cost of $167,500. Specifically, the contract requires the City to perform administrative and professional services tasks such as contract development and management, fiscal impact analysis, and record keeping. The City provides staff in support of the above services but also assists with implementation of the EDSP with many initiatives and duties not explicitly defined in the above services. In partnership with the Chamber of Commerce, staff at the City is identifying projects for feasibility, planning, development and eventual construction or implementation. The 2.75 FTEs dedicated to supporting Economic and Community Development Department (ECD) administer the EDC's normal business, as well as advance strategic capital projects such as the South Castell Preliminary Design, support airport planning and development and acted as lead staff for the Union Pacific Railroad property acquisition. In addition, the City's ECD FTEs oversee and are liaison to three distinct community boards: NBEDC, Workforce Housing Advisory Committee, and the Downtown Development Board. ECD staff will assume a lead role for the coordination of the three existing TIRZ boards in 2023.
